

Descriptive abstract

The invention relates to a printing sleeve of the multi-layer type, which has a printing layer, a compressible layer and a circumferential stiffening layer. The sleeve is characterized by the fact that stiffening layer (6) is provided between compressible layer (5) and printing layer (7). The invention can be used for the production of printing sleeves.